

CONGRESSMEN HOMeward BOUND

(From Monday's Advertiser.)
"Three cheers for Prince Cupid," yelled a group of enthusiastic Congressmen from the main deck of the liner Mongolia yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, as the vessel swung away from the pier into the harbor basin. And three ripping cheers were given in Hawaiian style, which they learned in Hilo this way: "Hip-hip-p-p-p hooray, hip-hip-p-p-p hooray, hip-hip-p-p-p hooray, hip-hip-p-p-p hooray." It was a style absolutely new to them and they promptly annexed it at once and claimed it as a part of the United States just as much as they do the Islands.

On his part, Prince Kuhio waved his hand and smiled his acknowledgment of the tribute paid by his warm admirers among the Congressional delegation. Then came a shower of leis from the decks—tributes from the Congressmen for both the Prince and the Princess.

Even Mayor Fern came in for a share of the enthusiasm, for Representative Bartholdt leaned over the rail and said: "Joe, keep right on, you're doing fine, old man." And His Honor waved a hand upward as if he were raising a two-hundred pound sack of sugar.

The Congressional people departed laden with leis, and the ladies also carried bouquets—and many verbal ones, too. The members of the party expressed regret that at last they had to leave the island shores and return to the humdrum of mainland life, without the exotic bloom of tropical flowers, the fun-making, the good times, the leis, the pretty Hawaiian maidens, the luau, and all that has made their visit so pleasant, but they promised to give Hawaii a helping hand every time they find her on the floor of the House, and each promised to be an usher and escort her to the platform where Speaker Cannon sits entrenched.

The Hawaiian band was on hand and a musical send-off was given, concluding with the singing of Aloha Oe. When the famous, ear-haunting song was sung by Madam Alapai, the members of the party, almost as one, hushed their gossip and farewells to listen to the familiar strains, for the song has taken a strong hold upon them.

One of the Congressmen was almost left behind. Mr. Houston of Tennessee became quite ill on Saturday evening and for some hours it was thought he might have to remain behind, but the courteous old Southern judge was on hand, beaming as usual, and shook hands with his new-found friends as heartily as ever, and even said he regretted that he was not more ill that he might remain in Honolulu a while longer. He said, however, that his family is awaiting him and he has four big boys, almost as big as himself, a wild lot, "like a pen of frisky mules," anxiously waiting for the steamer to bring him back.

Among other passengers returning were Admiral and Mrs. Holliday. It is rumored that the admiral, figuring ahead on the date of his retirement, has been looking up choice town lots, so that he may reside here when his active duty is over. Mrs. Emma Buchanan was also a passenger, in charge of Princess Kawananakoa's three children—Kakakua, Kapiolani and Liliokealani. They go to Los Angeles to join the Princess. Old Kauai, an aged Hawaiian who was Prince David's nurse and has been the playmate of the little folks, was quite overcome when the vessel left the dock with the three idols of his heart.

R. Meneses Davis, son of attorney George Davis, left for Harvard to enter the sophomore class. Judge Hatch's son, H. F. Wichman's son and many other young men of Honolulu also left to reenter colleges on the mainland.

The Honorable Thomas Sammons, Consul General of the United States at Seoul, was met by a number of men connected with the Chamber of Commerce, and regret was expressed that no opportunity had been afforded to hear his address on Korea. Nothing is known as to the future assignment intended by the State Department for Mr. Sammons, but it is said that he may not return to Seoul in his official capacity, as according to a Kobe report George Seidmore, the present consul at Kobe, has been promoted to the consul generalship of Seoul. There is talk of Sammons succeeding Consul General Miller at Tokio.

BARTHOLDT WAS ONCE A NEWSPAPERMAN

The members of the Honolulu newspaper fraternity have reached an understanding now as to why the Hon. Richard Bartholdt, dean of the Congressional delegation, is so popular with them. He achieved his present greatness because he was at one time a newspaperman. He set type, became a reporter and was successively assigned to the police, law court and political details of New York papers. He reported the Albany assembly sessions at the time Roosevelt was a member. He visited the Advertiser office last evening and inspected the composing room, where he issued a challenge to Foreman Poutroy to a type-setting contest.

SAMMONS SEES CITY'S SIGHTS

(From Sunday's Advertiser.)
The Honorable Thomas Sammons, Consul General of the United States at Seoul, Korea, arrived yesterday on the Mongolia and will continue on the vessel to the mainland today. Owing to the delay of the vessel, the address which Mr. Sammons was to have given Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, could not be given, and yesterday being a holiday a meeting of the chamber could not be held. Secretary Wood and other members of the chamber regretted that Mr. Sammons could not be heard, as he has some interesting notes on Korea.

The chamber placed an auto at his disposal and he made a thorough tour of the city, including Fort Ruger, Moanalua, the Pali and he visited the Aquarium, Bishop Museum and other places of interest. Mr. Sammons first visited Honolulu as secretary to the Senatorial Commission, which came here several years ago to investigate matters. Among the data which Mr. Sammons gave out here was the following:

"A number of foreigners, including Americans, have given serious consideration to the question of developing the sugar industry in Korea.

"Korea's total consumption of sugar in 1907 aggregated only $386,762 in value, and, therefore, should the sugar producing industry thrive, as is expected, the country will become an exporter of sugar.

"The chief experimental work in the cultivation of beet roots has been carried on at the Korean government model farm at Suwon, near Seoul, which the Japanese protectorate has established. The results obtained at this station will, therefore, indicate the possibilities of sugar production in Korea. These public experiments, however, confirm private experiments and careful observations all tending to demonstrate that in Korea, where rice raising is at present the chief agricultural industry, the cultivation of sugar beets will prove highly profitable.

"The Korean government and Japanese Residency General authorities have rendered every assistance in obtaining authentic data on this subject."

Concerning mining, Mr. Sammons says that the inauguration of a vigorous mining movement, principally on the part of Americans, will show that Korea possesses mineral wealth of great value.

"For over ten years a single group of mines, the first to be operated in the Kingdom by foreigners (American Oriental Consolidated Mining Company), has produced approximately $12,000,000 in gold bullion.

"The developing of mining and the many new districts that will be exploited, nearly all by Americans, will afford a big market for mining machinery. The Japanese protectorate has practically disposed of all export duties on mine products as well as removing import duty on supplies used in the operation of mines."

According to the passport men of the Islands, all of the passport books for this season will be issued during the course of the coming week.

KEEP KUHIO IN CONGRESS

(From Saturday's Advertiser.)
"The Hawaiian Islands may feel assured that, with Prince Kuhio at Washington as the Delegate to Congress, the Islands will be well taken care of when it comes to legislation and appropriations, for I say it candidly that there is no more deservedly popular man in Congress than the prince."

Representative Rodenberg, of Illinois, one of the closest personal friends of Prince Kalaniana'ole, made the above statement yesterday. Mr. Rodenberg said he made this statement without reference to politics, but because the statement was well merited.

"The prince is a gentleman, a sociable modest comrade, a man who understands Hawaiian affairs thoroughly, a man who is listened to by every one, one who has the entire with the leading men of the administration. Backed by the practical, methodical, painstaking and clear-cut work of his secretary, George B. McClellan, Prince Kuhio was able to get more appropriations for the Hawaiian Islands than even we dreamed of. Keep him in Washington and he will get the appropriations you are looking for.

"Another thing which I would like to impress upon the people here, and I believe my Democratic colleagues will bear me out in this, is that it will not do any good to send a representative who is not in consonance with the administration. It will be utterly useless to send any man other than a Republican. Take it down to the roots and after all, even in Washington, political lines have something to do with successful work, and if your representative is a part of the party of the administration he will be favored."

LURED BY HAWAII NEI.

S. F. Bulletin.—Lured to sea by the promise of a little pleasure jaunt to Honolulu and instead carried into the frozen north on a whaling schooner was the fate of two boys who arrived on the steamer Lehua this morning bringing with them a tale of hardship, cruelty and privation.

Six weeks ago Eddie Abrahamson, who claims to be sixteen years of age and looks about 13, Ray Busted, aged eighteen, and two other boys whose names are not known here, were approached on the waterfront by a "crimp" or shipping agent who drew an alluring picture of the joys of sea and offered a trip to Honolulu on the Confianza, with all the attendant pleasures of viewing new worlds in ease and comfort. Abrahamson, who lived at the St. Helena Apartments at 1355 O'Farrell street, had been trying, without success, to find work and finally gained his mother's consent. Busted, whose home is in Watsonville, didn't hesitate long and the other two boys accepted the offer.

According to their story they suffered terribly from the cold and were underfed and roughly handled by the captain. At Dutch Harbor they deserted the ship and appealed to the commander of the revenue cutter Peary, who gave them a trial and allowed them to break their contracts. They were stranded there without money and food and unable to find anything to do.

They tried to get passage on the Homer, but were refused, and finally appealed to Captain Weber of the salmon tender Lehua, owned by Frank Peterson and carrying supplies between San Francisco and the salmon canneries at Naknek. The two were taken on as workabouts, washing decks and doing odd jobs and in this way earned their passage back. The other two are expected to arrive in a week or so on some similar schooner.

The Confianza is a gasoline schooner fitted for whaling and, in charge of Captain McKee, went on a whaling trip to the Herald Islands up near Point Barrow.

UYENO IS BETTER.

Japanese Consul General Uyeno, who was badly hurt when an automobile smashed into his buggy Thursday evening, is much better, according to information received from his house last night. The Consul General was so far improved as to be able to leave his house in the evening for a short while.

ATCHERLEY SENT BACK TO ASYLUM

(From Saturday's Advertiser.)
Once more Dr. John Atcherley has been sent back to the asylum, after another futile attempt on the part of his wife to have him turned loose on the community. Judge Robinson yesterday afternoon refused to order his release on the hearing of the writ of certiorari.

The proceedings in court were ridiculous and at the same time pitiful. Neither the doctor, who was present in person, nor Mrs. Atcherley seemed to have the faintest conception of the purpose of a writ of certiorari. They supposed, apparently, that a review of the proceedings before the Lunacy Board included a review of all the testimony and absurd arguments, and although they were told time and again that such is not the intent of the action, they still insisted on trying to prove to Judge Robinson that Atcherley is not insane, that there was no evidence adduced before the Commissioners to show that he is crazy, and that the Commissioners were not fair, anyway. Mrs. Atcherley went so far as to impugn the motives of Chairman Alexander Lindsay of the Board of Commissioners and to insinuate that he had doctored the record sent up from the lower court.

Mrs. Atcherley and the doctor both argued the matter, appearing as their own attorneys, each interrupting the other and everybody else. Mrs. Atcherley had to be told by the judge to sit down before the hearing had been on two minutes. They were both of them entirely at sea, which is not to be wondered at since a writ of certiorari is a very rare proceeding in the courts and one that lawyers are not at all anxious to tackle. In fact, only two proceedings of the kind have been in the courts here in several years.

Deputy Attorney General Andrews and Deputy County Attorney Milverton appeared on behalf of the "prosecution," as Mrs. Atcherley insisted on calling it. Milverton read the record and explain it and let it go at that. Andrews contented himself by sitting still and letting the doctor and Mrs. Atcherley argue the case for him, for their arguments really were in favor of the Territory and nothing was needed.

The judge listened with more or less patience to the farce for an hour and a half, and finally remarked that the proceedings were becoming absurd. He ended the matter by dissolving the order to the Lunacy Commissioners to send up the record. Mrs. Atcherley noted a few exceptions to everything and an appeal to the Supreme Court, announcing that she intended to carry the matter to Washington. Once outside the court room, she remarked, "We must appeal this case; we can't get justice here."

With the departure of the Mongolia yesterday for San Francisco, the Young Hotel's guest list was reduced by one hundred persons.

KAEA AT THE SAME OLD GAME

George Kaea, the professional gambler, who was arrested by an Advertiser reporter with special police powers, while conducting a crap game a few weeks ago in the basement of a Beretania avenue building, was arrested at 2 o'clock yesterday morning for a like offense. This time he was engaged in a big game of craps in a house near the government stables in Kakaako. He was arrested with a number of others, three of whom are women.

The raid yesterday morning was conducted by Officer Kellett and other special police. They made a sudden descent upon the players and caught them in the act of throwing the dice. The dice, some money and other evidences of gambling were seized by the police.

Kaea, on the occasion of his arrest a few weeks ago, was fined $250 by Judge Andrade, one of the stiffest fines ever imposed by the district magistrate. Willie Vida, Sam Apoliona and George Kekipi, arrested at the same time, were also fined $250 each. Kaea has the crap fever and does not hesitate to go amongst Hawaiians and skin them of their hard earned wages. Saturday and other pay days are favorites with him, for appearing amongst them and inducing them to get into a game. He is generally the winner and the poi and fish bills of his victims generally go unpaid.

Kaea attempted to run on the Republican ticket for the lower house during the campaign, but his gambling record was exposed, necessitating him getting off the ticket. He declared at that time that he had reformed and was no longer gambling. For several months this year he conducted a regular crap shooting joint, shifting its location occasionally, when he believed it was safer to move than get a foul of the police. The persons arrested were Ko-li, Sam Kapua, Joe Kaahue, Abraham, David Keawepoo, George Kaea, Elaika Kawelo (w), Kahokulani (w), Mrs. Ko-li.

GEOGRAPHER COMING TO MAKE ISLAND MAPS

Superintendent Marston Campbell yesterday received a cablegram, as follows:

Sacramento, September 17.
Marston Campbell, Honolulu:
Will sail on Mongolia, October 3.
MARSHALL.

Mr. Marshall is the geographer of the Geologic Survey and is coming here to make detailed maps of the Islands, to be used in connection with the extension to Hawaii of the Reclamation Service.

PEARL HARBOR READY JULY 1912

Work on the naval drydock at Pearl Harbor will be started by the first of October.

Construction of the marine corps barracks will be under way by the first of the year.

The erection of the buildings of the naval station may not be started for nine months.

The entire naval station, drydock, marine barracks and quarters and channel and harbor dredging, will all be completed the first of July, 1912.

Admiral Richard H. Dyer, U.S.N., chief of the bureau of yards and docks, upon leaving for the Coast yesterday in the Mongolia, gave out the above information. The admiral, while making the tour of the Islands with the Congressional party, obtaining general information in regard to harbors and coasts, also spent considerable time going over matters connected with the engineering works at Pearl Harbor naval station, and he left a definite assurance that the rougher features of the development of the station will proceed with at once and be maintained continuously.

When the channel is of sufficient depth, width and general straightness, so that vessels may negotiate the passage easily, the assembling of materials for buildings will be proceeded with. The object of the Navy Department is to start various works at different times so that the entire station will be ready on a certain date, complete in all particulars.

HEAVY REWARD FOR MISSING CHINESE

Three hundred dollars is the reward that will be paid the man who succeeds in placing three Chinese deserters from the crew of the British collier Scottish Monarch in the hands of the master of the vessel. W. Sibbald, captain of the ship, is at present under heavy bonds, furnished by Theo. H. Davies & Co., for having allowed three Chinese members of his crew to escape while in this port, and unless the deserters are found, things are likely to go hard with the skipper, as the Chinese Exclusion Act provides for a fine of $1000 for each Chinese allowed to get into the country in the above-named manner.

Harry Lake is hot on the trail of the fugitives, and he hopes that the $300 will fall his way. According to information now in the hands of the police, the three deserters are still in this city, being hidden by local Chinese.

YOUNG CLUNEY'S BAIL IS FIXED AT $1000

Johnnie Cluney, driver of automobile No. 46, which smashed into the buggy containing Japanese Consul General Uyeno and his coachman, Y. Nagamoto, last Thursday evening, was placed under arrest yesterday, charged with furious and heedless driving. He was placed under bail in the sum of $1000, which was furnished by his father, Captain Cluney.

Consul General Uyeno is still suffering intensely from the injuries he received when thrown from his carriage, and Nagamoto, the coachman, may die. After running down the rig, young Cluney returned to the scene as soon as he could stop his machine, and carried his victims in it to the hospital. However, a more serious charge than the one under which he is now booked may be preferred against him if Nagamoto fails to get well.

Nine Japanese gamblers, including Shiono, or Ah Sam as he is familiarly known, were arrested by Chief Leal's men yesterday afternoon while playing craps.
